Dear John:

Please excuse the length of time I took to modify the final, but I made a fair number of changes and additions. I have included a revised copy of the report without the figures, since you already have these. I have added an abstract, re-written the introduction and conclusions sections, and expanded the analysis section, along with making the modifications which you and I discussed. I have sent the text over to our publication department to be put in the final report. I would appreciate any comments you may have.

By the way, [redacted] has a leased telephone line between Dayton and Washington. You can get our switchboard by dialing 920-2120. This will avoid a long distance charge.

I'll see you soon to tell you how we are doing on the extension of the microdensitometer measurement work.

Sincerely,
